

 SOUND ZONE

Tue 24 – Sat 28 May, 2pm - 10.30pm

Willow Tree Gourds
Bringing us songs and words of love from home.

Hollow Tree
A WW1 tree hollowed out for reconnaissance, offering secrets, coded letters and gossip.

Winding Path
Gramophone Horn Flowers take us on a journey, telling the story of departure from India, through the Middle Eas, into France and up to the front.

Broken Tree
Sub-bass rumbles of artillery and timpani of ‘Rites of Spring’ haunt the garden oasis with the soldiers memories and fear of return.

India Gate
2300 droplets fall, gurgle and run as subtle witness to the 2300 Indian soldiers that passed through Brighton’s Indian military hospitals.

Bedhead Pavilion
Home of Scribe and Mother India. Listen to the letters and turmoils of the scribe.

Red & Gold Pavilion
The walls speak and the surreal morphine-fuelled dreams of the wounded soldier slip time & space.

White Pavilion
Butchery, surgery, medical survey and censorship intermingle. Flute, digging, cutting, mingle with relentless ‘rites of mud’.

 PAVILION STRUCTURES

Tue 24 – Sat 28 May, 2pm - 10.30pm

Bedhead Pavilion
The home of the scribe, whose letters home capture the pain and homesickness of the soldiers. You are invited to add your own messages onto the bedheads.

Red & Gold Pavilion
A single bed, open to the sky, gives a sense of the strange confinement and intense scrutiny felt by the soldiers.

White Pavilion
Inspired by images of the operating theatre and the food preparation. A harsh reminder that injured men were often ‘patched up’ and sent back out to the front.

2pm - 9pm

Performances
Look out for theatrical interludes from our ensemble of actors, choirs and a special schools' collaboration.

Sat 28 May, 7.30pm & 10.15pm

Concerts
Experience two special concerts at Brighton Dome by by the Philharmonia Orchestra with Art Malik (7.30pm) and Debashish Bhattacharya (10.15pm) marrying classical music traditions from East and West.
